

DANIELLA LEVITT
Co-Executive Director
Leading Women Executives

Daniella Levitt, Co-Executive Director, is responsible for the program's strategic direction and development, curriculum and program delivery, as well as marketing and growth.

Growing up in South Africa served as inspiration for Daniella's drive around transformational change, and her belief that without taking significant risks, one does not achieve significant change for oneself or for others. Prior to joining Leading Women Executives, Daniella founded two companies -- Ovation Global Strategies, which assists corporations with transformational change initiatives, inter-generational leadership and talent strategies, and risk strategies for organizational talent growth and innovation; and Daniella Levitt Enterprises, which focuses on development and advancement of women in the workplace. She is the author of Ready, Set...RISK! – a book about positive strategies and tactics for women to turn career risk into opportunity. Daniella speaks regularly about these and other related topics to corporations and at conferences. She was a Senior Vice President at Aon Consulting and a Senior Manager at Deloitte Consulting following the start of her career at Andersen Consulting in South Africa.

Daniella is a member of the Human Resources Management Association of Chicago. She currently serves as a Board member of Access Community Health Network and the Chicago Sinfonietta.
